MORGAN LEWIS ATTORNEYS ADDRESS CRITICAL ISSUES IN EMPLOYMENT LAW IN CLE SEMINAR

Miami, January 9, 2003 – The Miami office of Morgan Lewis, one of the nation’s 10 largest law firms, is sponsoring and providing the entire faculty panel for a CLE-accredited course entitled, "Recent Developments in Employment Law." This legal update is designed to provide human resource professionals and their legal counsel with what they need to know now in such critical areas as mandatory arbitration of employment claims, workplace torts, retaliation, FMLA, wage-and-hour disputes, and insurance against employee lawsuits (ELPI). The course will be offered Wednesday, January 15, 2003 from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Ft. Lauderdale Marriott – North.

Morgan Lewis partner Anne Marie Estevez will address current discrimination issues, including recent Supreme Court decisions on the ADA, religion and race discrimination post-9/11, and other key employment discrimination topics. Morgan Lewis partner Mark Cheskin will serve as moderator for the seminar, while Morgan Lewis associates Beth Joseph, Brian Buckstein, Chris Hammon, Marlene Rodriguez, Brian Lerner, Richard Celler, Sharon Lisitzky and Kevin Smith will speak on topics ranging from wage-and-hour issues to employee off-duty misconduct.

“Recent Developments in Employment Law” has been approved by the Florida Bar for 8.0 general Continuing Legal Education credits. To register or for additional information, please call Sterling Education Services at 715.855.0495, or send an e-mail to ses11@sterlingeducation.com.
